104 MISSING AS BLAST, FIRE SINK LINER

539 Rescued Suffer Burns, Tell How Flames Enveloped Italian Vessel.

SCORES LEAP INTO SEA

Passengers, Crew Members Jump as Explosion Destroys All But 2 Lifeboats.

BULLETIN

MARSEILLES, France —(AP)—Italian officials announced today late this afternoon that all of the 412 passengers aboard the burned Italian motorship Orazio had been rescued, despite heavy seas and speed with which fire ravaged the vessel yesterday off the south coast of France.

(By Associated Press)

GENOA, Italy — Italian officials announced today that 104 persons, including 40 passengers, were missing in the burning of the 11,699-ton Italian motorship Orazio in the Mediterranean off the French coast yesterday.

Of the 643 passengers and crew members aboard when the liner left Genoa Saturday, a total of 539 were known to have been rescued by noon today (6 a. m. EST), officials said.

Other Ships on Rescue.

Those rescued were picked up by half a dozen vessels, and authorities said that possibly some others also had been saved, but not reported by their rescue vessels.

The Orazio had sailed for Valparaiso, Chile, and was to have made her first stop at Barcelona today. The fire was the result of an explosion from an undetermined cause.

First survivors reaching Marseille, France, told harrowing stories of a sudden explosion which enveloped the 11,699-ton ship in flame and destroyed all but two of her lifeboats.

The 47 survivors brought to safety by a French auxiliary cruiser said most of the Orazio's passengers and crew threw themselves into the stormy Mediterranean, where they were picked up by lifeboats launched from three Italian merchant ships and two French warships standing by.

More survivors were aboard two French destroyers. Special hospitals were ready to care for those who had suffered burns and exposure.

Refugees from the abandoned South America-bound liner said the explosion occurred about 5 p. m. yesterday in her engine room while she was fighting her way through a tempest 60 miles off Barcelona.

Escape With Cuts As Train Smashes Into Stalled Car

GALION—Mr. and Mrs. James Cloyd Ness saw death rushing down on them last night—but they escaped with cuts and bruises.

Driving toward their home west of here last night, their car stalled on the Erie tracks at the Harding way west crossing.

The engine of a freight train smashed into the front of their car before either of them could move. It pushed the car back off the tracks, spinning it around a couple of times and roared on.

The accident occurred at 10:45 p. m. There is no watchman at the crossing at that hour.

Mrs. Ness suffered only bruises about the arms and legs.

Holds Jap Plan for 'Puppet Regime' In China Will Fail

(Editor's note: Japanese hopes of creating a unified China under the projected "puppet regime" of Wang Ching-Wei are foredoomed to disappointment, according to James R. Young, International News Service Tokyo manager. Young has just completed a lengthy tour of China to analyze the present and future of the Sino-Japanese war. The following dispatch is the first of a series of six, cabled to New York upon his return to Tokyo and prior to his arrest by Japanese authorities.)

By JAMES R. YOUNG

Japan has pinned her hopes for the ultimate "pacification" of China upon the slim shoulders of Wang Ching-Wei, once premier in a Nationalist Chinese government, now slated to become head of a "puppet" Japanese regime in the hard-to-conquer ancient republic.

Consensus of opinion in Shanghai, as I learned upon my recent visit there, is that these hopes are foredoomed to disappointment.

Wang has started the ball rolling by appealing to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek for formation of a nationwide peace front and abandonment of the war against Japanese imperialism.

Chiang seems determined to reject any such overtures. To him prosecution of the war is China's only hope of salvation. And foreign observers in Shanghai see him ready to fight until the last vestige of Nipponese militarism is expunged from his homeland.

A foreign diplomat—his identity is immaterial—drew this unflattering picture of the Wang regime.

"These fellows are out for personal gain rather than service in creating a new order in Asia. Japan is plagued with a lack of knowledge of China or understanding of Chinese psychology, ideology and family system.

"Japan is dealing with the poorest Chinese human material. The Japanese puppets require endless financing. They are not likely to yield any satisfactory diplomatic, political or economic results. The best Chinese have fled occupied or threatened areas, leaving the Japanese with opportunists and riff-raff. This fact is well known to the foreign section of every power having interests in China. Only the Japanese appear and act blissfully ignorant of this outstanding truth.

"Neither Chiang Kai-Shek and his associates, nor the good business men in China will make friends with Japan's puppets nor undergo the chagrin of any diplomatic negotiations with Japan that might cause loss of honor."

The picture of a unified, spontaneous China supporting Wang Ching-Wei or any other puppet is out of focus. Shrewd and able men are

Expect Soviets To Attack Over Ice-Coated Gulf

Finnish Bombers Raid Red Air Bases In Estonia In Anticipation of New Thrusts; Claim 11 Russian Planes Shot Down; Halt Salla Retreat.

BULLETIN

HELSINKI —(UP)—Finnish troops killed nearly 1,000 Russians in five separate engagements yesterday and destroyed at least 12 tanks, an official communique announced today.

(By Associated Press)

HELSINKI—Freezing of the Gulf of Finland from the Estonian to the Finnish shore has confronted Finland with the possibility of an over-ice attack from Soviet Russian bases in Estonia.

Foreign military observers speculated today on the chances of such a thrust, but Finns insisted they were well prepared to meet it.

The coast, in some sections at least, has been fortified and barricaded with barbed wire. The frozen beach at Hanko, for example, is laced with barbed wire.

Hanko, southernmost Finland, lies at the tip of a Gulf of Finland peninsula, 55 miles northwest of Baltiski, Soviet Russia's Estonian air base.

Almost as if in anticipation of such a Russian move, Finland was reported to have struck at Russian aviation bases on one of the few occasions in which the fledgling Finnish air force has challenged the big Russian aerial armada.

(A Reuters News Agency dispatch from Helsinki said Finnish armies had bombed the Soviet union's great naval base at Kronstadt in the Gulf of Finland and the Estonian port of Baltiski, where a Russian air base was set up recently by Russian-Estonian treaty.

(Press dispatches reaching Stockholm reported that Kronstadt and an Estonian coastal base were attacked by 20 planes which returned safely to Finland.

(An Oslo newspaper said a group of foreign volunteer fliers for Finland, including several Swedes, staged a one-hour raid on Kronstadt a few days ago.)

The Finnish command also reported shooting down an observation balloon and 11 Russian bombers.

A communique made no mention of fighting in the Salla sector above the Arctic circle but an

LOSSES: Mines or Torpedoes Sink 3 British Ships, Destroyer

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Four British ships, one of them a sleek destroyer, were sent to the bottom in a wave of week-end shipping losses.

Three neutral victims also added to the heavy toll of men and ships, especially in icy waters around the British Isles, which some sources blamed on a sharp increase in mines.

Sinking of the destroyer Grenville, 1,485-ton Ottilia leader, "by a mine or torpedo" was announced by the admiralty yesterday. She was the fourth British destroyer

PROTEST: Japs Weigh Action On British Seizure of 21 Nazis

(By Associated Press)

TOKYO—Japan considered counter measures today against British action in halting the Japanese liner Asama Maru and removing 21 German merchant seamen.

A shot was reported fired across the bow of the Japanese ship.

While officials studied the incident with view to a possible formal protest tomorrow, Yakichiro Suma, foreign office spokesman, reported that Japanese embassy officials at Washington would approach the state department on "technical matters" regarding Japanese-American trade relations.

The commercial treaty between Japan and the United States expires Friday.

"The trade situation not only is uneasy for the Japanese, but also for the Americans and we deem the state department should consider this thoroughly," Suma declared.

The spokesman termed the removal of Nazi seamen by a British liner warship as "very regrettable" because the "search and arrests" of passengers aboard the ship had taken place near our shore.

Passengers aboard the ship said the liner was stopped about 25 miles off the Japanese shore and within sight of land off Yokohama. The Asama Maru left,

DEADLINE SET FOR FILING IN SPECIAL VOTE

All Candidates for Congress Must Have Petitions in by Noon, Jan. 27.

Candidates for the nomination for 17th district congressman at the special Feb. 6 primary must file their petitions with the Richland county election board by noon Saturday, Secretary of State Earl Griffith ordered today.

Whether they are mailed or filed personally by the candidate, the petitions must be in the board of elections office at 12 noon, Griffith told the board in a telegram.

Further instructions on arrangements for the special primary Feb. 6 and the special congressional election Feb. 27 are expected tomorrow from the secretary of state, A. F. Porter, election board clerk, said today.

Porter said the election board probably will meet this afternoon or Tuesday to set a date for closing of registration for the primary. Registrations and transfers are still being received, but the lists will be closed several days before the election.

Meanwhile, Ralph C. Lutz of Lexington, Richland county representative to the general assembly, said today that he will not enter the race for the Democratic nomination for congress at the February primary. He said, however, that he has not decided whether he will seek the nomination at the regular primary in May.

Only three candidates, two Republicans and a Democrat,

ASKS FOR JOB

Jenkins Sees Sherwood, Told There's No Vacancy.

Thomas C. Jenkins, former Mansfielder who resigned as superintendent of the London prison farm several weeks ago before removal charges were brought against him, met with a rebuff today when he applied to State Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood for a job, dispatches from Columbus said today.

Jenkins said he planned to ask Sherwood for a position in the welfare department in which he had been employed for 35 years before resigning.

The director following the conference with Jenkins in Columbus said no position in the department was available "at the moment."

Jenkins was formerly superintendent at the Ohio State reformatory before he was transferred to London. He started in 1905 as a guard here.

Broods Over Fate of Kidnapers, Kills Self

Daughter Of Ex-Kansas City Manager Shoots Self In Head.

(By Associated Press)

KANSAS CITY — Crushed by the death of her father and brooding over the punishment of the men who kidnaped her, Miss Mary McElroy, daughter of Kansas City's ousted city manager, shot herself in the head. Her maid found the body, a small pistol nearby.

H. F. McElroy, stormy autocrat of the city hall, had been both father and mother to his daughter and son. Their mother died when they were babies, and McElroy brought them up, dressed them, bathed them, supervised their education. Mary and "the old boy," as she called her father, had been inseparable companions for years.

Mary McElroy, slender, 32-year-old brunet, had seen the will to live ebbing from him after former Mayor Bryce B. Smith moved him and other Pendergast organization men out of office last

Lists Four Ambitions In Sermon to Mid-Year Grads

Don't Let Anything Sidetrack You From Your Purpose In Life, Rev. Hagelbarger Tells Students.

"Have some purpose in life and don't let anything sidetrack you from it," Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger, pastor of the First Christian church, advised the 127 members of the January graduating class of Senior high school at the baccalaureate service at the First Lutheran church last night.

The service was attended by a near capacity audience of parents and friends of the graduates, members of the largest mid-year class in the school's history.

Four ambitions and desires each person should have, were suggested by Rev. Hagelbarger in his sermon on "What Does Life Want?"

First was security. "I hope you find work that will bring you bread and butter," he said. "Many live in fear and dread these days because insecurity is everywhere. Men want financial security from the dread and fear of want, political security from the menace of war, and moral security from evils which destroy the inner life."

Personal recognition was the second ambition suggested. Rev. Hagelbarger said: "We are individual personalities with possibilities and capacities that differentiate us from other people. We want recognition in our family."

COLUMBUS—Indications that Mayor Harold Burton, Cleveland, may run for the Republican nomination for U. S. senator, were seen today when Earl Hart, the mayor's secretary, requested nominating petitions from the secretary of state's office.

Gov. John W. Bricker will sign today the petition forms for placing his name on Republican May primary ballots for re-nomination.

The forms will be placed in circulation immediately.

Roosevelt, Cabinet Officers Bow at Bier of Senator Borah

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The senate pays final tribute today at a simple state funeral to William Edgar Borah, who served as Republican senator from Idaho for 33 years.

President Roosevelt, his cabinet, justices of the supreme court, the diplomatic corps and officers of the armed services joined the senate and the house of representatives in the senate chamber for the services at 12:30 p. m.

The body of the 71-year-old dean of the senate, who died Friday night from cerebral hemorrhage, was placed in the flower-laden chamber on hour and a half before the services began. The remains will be sent to Boise, Idaho, for burial.

LOWER MERION, Pa. —(UP)—An 18-year-old high school senior was held today for the shooting of her father during an altercation that grew out of his refusal to come to breakfast.

Joseph J. Baran, 51, jobless handyman, was in Byrn Mawr hospital with a bullet in his neck. Physicians said he would recover.

IT'S 18 TODAY, HIGH FOR 8 DAYS

Mercury Starts on Slow Climb From Zero Level; Worst of Frigid Wave Past.

Mansfielders turned their collars down a little today and eased up on their furnace stoking as the temperature climbed to 18 degrees at noon, the highest mark in eight days.

Although the weatherman predicted continued cold tonight and for the next three days, the worst of the cold wave apparently had passed today so far as Ohio was concerned.

The mercury moved up 10 degrees this morning to the unaccustomed 18-degree mark after falling to eight above last night. Light snow continued to fall in the Mansfield area this afternoon and the weatherman said flurries will continue tonight and Tuesday.

While Ohioans enjoyed a respite from the worst cold wave in four years, western New York state was digging out of a blizzard that has raged for six days and Florida was in the grip of freezing weather that threatened the fruit crops.

Miami had a reading of 42 degrees this morning as vacationers deserted the beaches to get out their furs and overcoats. Fireplaces and heaters were lighted.

In northern Florida temperatures were below freezing and

TOWNSEND HITS TRADE PROPOSAL

Calls on Foreign Countries to Raise Standard of Living.

AKRON —(INS)—Dr. Francis E. Townsend aligned himself against American trade with foreign countries unless "they raise their standard of living up to America's."

Speaking before 2,000 followers at a meeting of the 16th congressional district Townsend club, Townsend attacked the taxing system of the United States and advocated a tax on gross rather than net income of individuals.

Compelling foreign nations to raise their living standard, he said, would keep them from producing the same kind of products at a lower cost and would give U. S. producers an "even chance to sell their goods."

PENNSY PROBES DERAILMENT AND TRAFFIC TIE-UP

Line Blocked 14 Hours After 24 Freight Cars Leave Track Early Sunday.

Pennsylvania railroad officials today started an investigation to determine what caused the derailment of 24 cars of a 90-car freight train 12 miles east of Loudonville in Wayne county, early yesterday cutting off passenger service from Mansfield for 14 hours.

Cars which left the tracks and were strewn along the highway for nearly half a mile were loaded with fuel oil, automobiles, lumber and food.

The accident which occurred about 3 a. m., resulted in injury to a fireman whose name could not be learned, was believed to have been caused by a broken axle on one of the cars.

Buses chartered by the railroad gathered up section crews in Wooster, Loudonville, Perryssville, Shreve and other towns, and it was about 5 p. m. before the wreckage had been cleared away and service resumed.

The accident forced the Pennsylvania to detour 15 passenger trains from Alliance to Cleveland and then to Crestline, leaving Mansfield without passenger service nearly all day.

J. E. Young, Mansfield agent, said that no passenger service to the west was conducted from Mansfield until late last night. A lone passenger who had purchased a ticket to the east was taken by taxicab to Wooster yesterday morning.

BROWDER TALKS

Red Leader Argues Own Case Before Fraud Jury.

NEW YORK —(AP)—Earl Browder, national Communist leader, summed up his own case today in his trial on charges of passport fraud.

Standing calmly before a jury of 11 men and one woman, Browder said at the outset that he had no notion that he was a "better lawyer than my attorney (George Gordon Battle)."

"My only qualifications to argue the case are that I am infinitely familiar with the facts and that I have a law degree—a degree obtained from a correspondence school," he said.

The Communist leader did not testify in his own defense, nor did his lawyer call any other witnesses.

Browder, holding a sheaf of typed notes, summed up his case slowly and quietly.

He told the jury he believed "the real issue" had been obscured by irrelevant and immaterial details."

CHAPTER V

She heard the glass panel between them and the driver's compartment slide back, and the man's voice called to the driver to stop.

"I'm leaving here, Miss Dutton," he said. "Remember what I told you."

She felt his hand suddenly groping and finding hers in the dark, and then a small round object pressed into her palm as the car slowed and came to a stop.

She heard the door open and close, the murmur of a voice, and a moment later the car started up again. Before she had time to wonder what it was all about, the cab stopped again and the driver had opened the door for her.

"The Rond-Point, Mademoiselle," he said.

She stepped out and fished in her purse for a note to pay him, but as she stood on the curb the taxicab pulled away. Apparently her mysterious fellow passenger had paid the fare.

Claire walked slowly across the sidewalk. A small blue light was her only guide and finally she found the door, swung it back, pushed through several thicknesses of heavy drapery and was all but blinded by the lights of the cafe. They were not bright, but seemed so after the complete darkness outside.

She glanced at the small object in her hand and uttered an exclamation. It was a vanity case—one she remembered as having been in her stolen dressing case. "This is a little souvenir of Paris," he had said. She snapped open the lid, and saw a small card. Printed in the center were mere initials "Z. Y."—nothing more. She turned it over, but there was no mark on the other side.

Claire glanced up and saw Danny Brooks approaching. Quickly she opened her bag and slipped the vanity case into it.

Claire smiled up at Danny Brooks and extended her hand in greeting. She liked Danny, and she thought again as she met him how perfectly he fitted into the picture she always had had of what a foreign correspondent should look like.

Suave in manner, handsome, although a bit florid of face, his well-tailored figure was one that would attract attention any place.

"Claire!" he exclaimed. "How nice to see you. I thought by now you'd be well headed for home."

"So did I," she answered, with a little laugh. "But I lost my boss some place, and I couldn't very well go home and leave him here, could I?"

Brooks piloted her toward the bar at the side of the room, and before she had had a chance to explain what had happened to Cameron, he was introducing her to several people she had never seen before.

"I want you to meet some friends of mine, Claire," he said. "This is Maria Herczek—and Julie Roland." Claire nodded and smiled, and glanced quickly at the women, but before she could make up her mind about them Danny was presenting her to George Roland and Captain Rene Martin. Roland enclosed her hand in a hearty clasp and murmured "Pleased to meetcha," and the Frenchman, when his turn came, bowed from the waist and brushed the back of her hand with his lips.

Captain Martin was in uniform and Claire noted the gold wings pinned to the left breast of his coat which indicated he was an aviator.

There was a murmur of polite conversation for several minutes while Danny ordered drinks all around. Claire declined anything stronger than a limeade and tried to size up her companions as she slowly sipped the cooling mixture.

Maria Herczek was a striking-looking girl, smartly gowned and wearing her natural blond hair in a chic coiffure that bore the stamp of Antoine as clearly as though it were labeled.

With high cheek bones and wide-set greenish eyes, she hardly needed her name to reveal her Slavic origin. "Exotic" was the descriptive word Claire found clinging, unthought, to her lips. "Charming" was another that flashed into her mind.

Julie Roland very definitely was American although Claire could see the signs of hours spent in beauty salons and expensive dress-making establishments reflected in her appearance. Her beauty was of a fresher variety than that of Maria; a naturalness shown through the expert manipulations of an artiste who specialized in make-up.

Her husband presented a curious contradiction of mid-Western farm background and cosmopolitan polish. His accent, if anything, she thought, was a trifle too broad for middle west and somehow Claire got an idea that perhaps it was a bit forced. He looked like any one of a thousand Americans she had known—prosperous business men in their late thirties, growing thicker through middle as their hair grew thinner. She was amazed and scarcely believing when she was told later that he had been in business in Paris for fifteen years. An importer, who handled goods from all countries, but particularly known for his excellent stock of delicate Dresdens.

As the waves of conversation rolled up and about her, Claire dropped in an occasional word and devoted herself to her innocuous drink. Captain Martin reminded her somewhat of Maurice Chevalier, although he was smaller in stature and not quite so exaggerated in feature. He had the same wide mouth, inclined to curl a bit as he smiled, and small eyes that could dance merrily one moment and be deadly serious, with a steel-like quality, the next. As a friend, he would be charming, but Claire shivered slightly when she thought of him as an enemy. He could be merciless, deadly.

She examined her new acquaintances with different eyes than she might have, did she not remember the warning her mysterious companion "Z. Y." had voiced in the taxicab.

"You will meet several people tonight," he said. "Some will be friends—some enemies."

Were these the people he had meant? How could he have known she was going to meet any one, even Danny? Who was he? How had he come into possession of the vanity case which had been in her vanished bag?

She shook her head despondently. It was too much of a puzzle for her. Did he mean that Maria Herczek would be an enemy to her? Or Julie Roland, or her husband George? Certainly he couldn't have meant Captain Martin or Danny!

Her thoughts were interrupted by Danny Brooks demanding to know if she'd rather have another drink or some food. She realized suddenly that she was hungry—that she hadn't eaten since morning, and there was nothing feigned about her enthusiasm in favor of food.

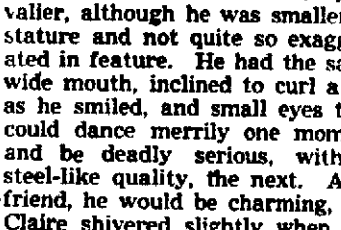

Danny made a smooth excuse—some private business to discuss with her—and they excused themselves. A few minutes later, from their secluded small table, she saw the others follow a waiter

Coffee Party Held By 3 Hostesses For Miss Miller

Mrs. E. N. Orth Opens Home For Informal Nicknack Shower.

MISS JESSIE THOMAS, Mrs. A. Clair Bell and Mrs. E. N. Orth gave a morning coffee party for Miss Vivian Miller yesterday from 10 until 12 o'clock. Guests at the affair, which was held at the Orth home, 141 Western avenue, included members of Beta chapter of Gamma Gamma Gamma sorority and the honoree's sisters, the Misses Mary Elizabeth and Juanita Miller.

A buffet breakfast was served from a long table, decorated with Mexican appointments. Mrs. Bell poured, and the guests were seated at small tables, which also had Mexican favors.

Miss Miller received a shower of nicknacks from the guests, and the hostesses presented her with a wedding gift. During the social hour, the group made a bride's book.

At 12:30 o'clock next Sunday, before the altar of the First Presbyterian church, Miss Miller will become the bride of William Mosey. Rev. David N. Roller will officiate at the quiet, informal ceremony.

PROFITABLE FUN FOR EVERYONE TONITE.

Informally Speaking...

Monday, Jan. 22.

Lucy, dear:

WINTER is still very definitely among those present—although since we suffered from below zero temperatures last week, any reading over five degrees above zero really seems quite mild. . . . Undoubtedly you've been experiencing the same frigid days in your town, and like the rest of us, can find consolation only in a cheering fire and memories of a summer vacation.

Speaking of warming memories, there are some folks here in town who certainly have some. . . . Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Iden and their daughter, Peggy Ann, and Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Cleland returned recently from a motor trip through the southwest. . . . They spent Christmas in New Orleans, La., where they watched folks celebrate by shooting off fireworks, as is customary throughout the south. . . . They followed the Gulf route to Mexico City, where New Year eve was celebrated in typical U.S.A. style—according to Mrs. Iden, they had the pleasant experience of meeting Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Hamilton of our town one evening at Sanborn's restaurant (noted by tourists for the American food served there). . . . They were in Mexico City (where the warm sun shone every day) for a week, and then came home through Texas, where they ran into a snowstorm just north of Dallas.

Did you know that Bob Spear just "planted" his fraternity pin, Lucy? Perhaps you recall that he's an Alpha Tau Omega at DePauw university. Well, he gave his pin to Dorothy Ball of Indianapolis, Ind., who's a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority at the university.

THE morning mail brought some collegiate news from Ohio State university too, Lucy. . . . Several of our students at the school have made outstanding scholastic records during the year and have been placed on the honor rolls—William Ackerman and Lars Larson did exceptionally good work in the College of Engineering. . . . The honor roll of the College of Commerce and Administration carried the names of John Koman, Gerald Dent and Russell Shroyck, while Michael Klein's name appeared on the roll for the College of Pharmacy. . . . Charles Teale has been honored with membership in Sigma Gamma Epsilon, honorary fraternity in mining, metallurgical ceramics and geology at the university.

The saying goes that "little girls are made of sugar and spice and everything nice," but it's amazing to see what their purses "are made of" when they've grown up—lipstick and rouge, keys and—well, about 100 other things. . . . So when Mrs. N. M. Mentzer entertained her club the other day, she used that idea for a contest. Each member had to empty her purse, and the one with the most articles therein won a prize. . . . Mrs. W. E. Stough was the winner—with 117 articles in her purse!

AND that seems to be just about that, so far as the news for today is concerned, Lucy, so I'll close and write again next week.

Lovingly

Marianne

THEATERS

REPRESENTATIVE of Madame Tussaud's famous wax museum in London has requested a plaster cast of Anna Neagle's hands. After they are reproduced in wax, they will go on exhibit. Miss Neagle will be one of the few film celebrities to be honored in this way. Charlie Chaplin, Garbo and Shirley Temple are glorified in full length figures. . . . Elsa Maxwell is staying at Connie Bennett's house while Connie is on her footlight excursion in the east. . . . After getting a preview peep at Eleanor Powell's new Conga dance routine, Arthur Murray says it should make her No. 1 in American's Hip Parade.

Annual Bowling Ball; Amima Club Dance Entertain Many

THE WEEK-END was marked by two dances which offered entertainment to several hundred Mansfielders. The Westinghouse plant and the Mansfield-Leland hotel were the scenes of the Saturday night parties.

The second annual Westinghouse Bowling Ball was held Saturday evening at the Westinghouse auditorium with more than 200 couples in attendance. This informal event was given for members of the Westinghouse Bowling league of which H. C. Little is the president. Henry H. Heiser was chairman of arrangements.

Musicians As Actors. Dailies Frantz and Toscha Seidel, noted concert pianist and violinist, ments and R. O. Richards, master of ceremonies.

Balloons in many colors decorated the hall and a feature of the entertainment was a balloon dance contest which was won by Mr. and Mrs. Heiser.

Music was furnished by the Westinghouse orchestra under the direction of Mr. Richards. Members of the committee assisting Mr. Heiser were Walter Fensch, J. Hanrahan, George Perry, Andy Stash, Carl Kushin and Jack Charters.

The 15th annual dinner dance of the Amima club was held in the ballroom of the Mansfield-Leland hotel with approximately 50 in attendance. Gardenias marked the places of the guests at dinner, and the main table was centered with a bouquet of roses and sweetpeas, spelling out "Amima." This floral piece was presented to Mrs. Paul English, wife of the retiring president. The club gave Mr. English a leather traveling case in honor of the occasion.

Gene Lantz and his orchestra furnished the music for dancing. Bridge was in play at several tables on the mezzanine floor during the evening. Joe C. Hartline reviewed the history of the club and told of its aims during the coming year. Edward Channell was chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements, assisted by Clifford Heaton and Ward Ingraham.

Judy Garland Has Lead. Starting Tuesday at the Majestic theater for a three day run will be "The Wizard of Oz" starring Judy Garland, Frank Morgan, Bert Lahr and Jack Haley; and the sensational "Girls on Probation." Crime, punishment, innocence and vindication follow each other in this secondary feature with Jane Bryan, Ronald Reagan and Sheila Bromley in the leading roles.

Adequate and efficient house heating is the first consideration in homemaking. The installation of new furnace systems, or the repair of the existing heating system, holds first place among the objectives of modernization loans the rotund little comedian, who plays a major role in "Quick Millions."

COUPLE WEDDED HERE BY REV. J. A. BOYER

Several Anniversaries Celebrated Over Week-End With Supper Parties, Receptions In Honor of Celebrants.

WEDDINGS and the celebration of anniversaries took an important place in Mansfield entertaining over the past week-end. At 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon Miss Emma Evaline Kellar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo A. Kellar, 102 North Adams street, and Glenn Bussdieker, Toledo, exchanged the nuptial vows. Rev. James A. Boyer, pastor of the First United Brethren church, read the ceremony at the parsonage.

For her marriage the former Miss Kellar wore a black silk crepe dress trimmed in wine with black accessories. Immediately after the ceremony the pair left for Toledo. Mr. Bussdieker is employed by the Mansfield Improvement and Construction company.

In celebration of their silver wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Marks, 205 Helen avenue, received 100 friends between the hours of 2 and 10 p. m. yesterday. The buffet table from which refreshments were served was decorated with a wedding cake and white candles, smilax and stevia.

Mr. and Mrs. Marks were married at the First Lutheran church in Mansfield Jan. 21, 1915. They are the parents of three children, Robert, Marylou and David.

Neva Clingan and Mr. and Mrs. Burdell Blaney of Mansfield were among the guests at the surprise party honoring Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Baker, near Shenandoah, yesterday. A dinner was served to 12 in celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Baker's 25th wedding anniversary. They were married Jan. 23, 1915.

A buffet supper was served to friends of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Schacher, 11 West Williams avenue, Saturday night when the couple celebrated their 15th wedding anniversary. The hosts were presented with a shower of crystal gifts, and games were played throughout the evening.

A group of friends surprised Mr. and Mrs. Jay Swigart with an old-fashioned belling on their 25th wedding anniversary Saturday evening at their home, 566 West Third street. The surprise party followed a quiet family dinner. Games were played during the evening, and at a late hour, the guests served refreshments. They also presented the honored couple with gifts of crystal and silver.

SORORIS NOTICE. Members of Mansfield Junior Sorosis will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. with Mrs. V. A. Simpson, Westview boulevard, South Boulevard, instead of with Mrs. William Hauserman as was previously announced.

Women Doubt Spirit Messages

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Were you ever in love? And were you tortured by the fear that the youth you adored didn't love you as much as you loved him? And did you know of no other way to settle the matter than to go, secretly, of course, to a fortune-teller?

This, everybody knows, is the way that all women are thought to settle their heart-problems. In fact, women have always been held to be believers in the unbelievable. They are, or so people will tell you, seers of ghosts, consultants of the stars, probes into the occult and patrons of all those murky arts that are based on tea-leaves, cards and lines in the palm.

Now it appears that they are nothing of the sort. Or if they ever were, they seem mostly to have outgrown it. This doesn't mean that no love-stricken girl, facing a romantic crisis, ever sneaks out to have her life-story foretold, in the good old-fashioned way. But it must mean that girls are more capable of managing their love-affairs than they used to be, or, that having learned to face facts more closely, they are less and less inclined to put their faith either in distant stars or in damp tea-leaves. So that the dark, complexioned, ample-bodied matrons, sitting behind small tables in thickly-curtained rooms, dispensing good and bad luck to scared, love-sick visitors, don't do anything like the business that they used to do.

How do we know that women have changed their ways? Because they themselves have said so. The thirty-seven million women who were canvassed recently by one of the women's magazines have individually answered the very definite questions put to them in regard to this whole subject. Now they're on record as a pretty hard-headed sex.

What future is there going to be for fortune-telling when four out of every five women in this country say that they think there's nothing in it and deny that they spend their pin-money in any such form of dissipation? One wonders, by the way if universal patronage of the movies has anything to do with this. Does every romantic movie have an answer, if only an indirect one, for hearts that are honestly troubled and lives that for the moment seem askew?

As to palm-reading, this fared a shade better among the women who were interviewed. And it's true that there's something convincing about those lines on the palm. It's easy to believe they mean something. Only, who knows what it is? Ten per cent of the women came out squarely and said they believed in palm-reading. For my part, I hope they're right.

It's a jump, of course, from palmistry to spirit messages—communication with the dead. But somehow I should have supposed that a good many women believed, in a quiet way, in spirit communication. The truth is that only seven per cent of all American women entertain any such belief. It's rather impressive, isn't it, when a good, strong 93 per cent comes out with a mighty No?

Marriage Meddlers By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"I shall not trouble you any further with hysterics," she said, "but I would like to hear my mother's reaction to what you overheard—"

"To what she overheard as well," I amended firmly. "But it was not at all what you fear. She appeared neither angry nor grieved. Instead, she appeared genuinely amused."

A quiver distorted her mouth for an instant, then she was calm again.

"I suppose that information ought to be reassuring to me," she said bitterly, "but, curiously enough, it isn't. I am not particularly gratified—or flattered—at the knowledge that my mother is laughing at me with some outsider."

If she had substituted the word "peasant," her tone or her meaning could not have been plainer.

"I think," I said quietly, "that we would better get back to the question we were discussing, that of your desire to have a role in my play."

The stony look in her eyes changed swiftly to alarm.

"What's the use of going on with that?" she asked. "I suppose I've ruined my chances by what I just said to you."

"I see you do not know me very well," I returned. "Please be very sure that nothing you can say or think of me will have the slightest influence upon my decision. That rests solely upon yourself whether you can meet my conditions."

I saw her wince at that, but her voice was calm.

"Please tell me what they are," she said.

"Really, there is only one," I answered. "If I do what you have just asked of me, you must stop trying to make Mary uncomfortable. Do I make my meaning clear, or shall I have to explain it?"

Her throat muscles made a spasmodic swallowing motion, then were still.

"I understand you," she said.

"Then," I said briskly, "take a minute or two before you give me a promise that you will leave Mary—and Noel—alone after this. I do not wish you to make this promise without thinking it over, for I know that once having made it, I can trust you to keep it."

Her head lifted proudly. "Yes, you can do that," she said.

"All the more reason for taking time over your decision," I said. "Stay here and think it out. I will be back in three minutes."

I had my hand on the doorknob when she stopped me.

"It is not necessary that you go," she said. "I already have made my decision."

How To Relieve Misery of Your CHEST COLD

If you are suffering from a miserable chest cold, try this: Massage throat, chest, and back with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. Then spread a thick layer on chest and cover with warm cloth. VapoRub goes right to work to bring relief—two ways at once. (1) Direct through the skin like a poultice. (2) Direct to the irritated air-passages with its medicated vapors.

This poultice-vapor action loosens phlegm, clears air-passages—checks tendency to cough—relieves local congestion. Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over.

Pie 'N Coffee Traditional Fare

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

"Pie and coffee, please," is the most frequently given dessert order in restaurants, according to a recent survey. If you are a doubting Thomas, then conduct your own survey. The chances are you'll find out for yourself that men—yesterday, today and tomorrow—like pie and coffee. So try them on these good pies.

Grape Cream Meringue is novel and delightful. The meringue shell is made with one-eighth teaspoon salt, two egg whites, two-thirds cup sugar, one-fourth teaspoon vinegar, one-fourth teaspoon vanilla. Add salt to egg whites and beat until foamy throughout. Add sugar gradually beating after each addition until sugar is thoroughly blended. Continue beating until mixture is very stiff and will stand in peaks. Fold in vinegar and vanilla. Spread evenly over bottom and sides of well-buttered nine-inch pie plate, swirling mixture around the edge of plate. Bake in 275 degrees F. oven 40 to 45 minutes. Cool. Yield: one nine-inch meringue shell.

For the filling use two and one-half teaspoons gelatin, one-fourth cup water, one cup grape juice, one-fourth cup sugar, teaspoon lemon juice, one-eighth teaspoon salt and one cup heavy cream. Soften gelatin in water for five minutes; place over hot water until quite dissolved. Cool to lukewarm at room temperature. Combine grape juice, sugar, lemon juice and salt, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Add small amount of gelatin, stirring until blended. Next combine with remaining grape juice mixture. Chill until syrupy. Beat cream until thick and shiny but not stiff. Fold into grape juice mixture. Chill until slightly thickened. Serve plain or garnish with unsweetened whipped cream and seeded white grapes.

Banana Whipped Cream Pie, food for the gods but not for dieteters, is made with two tablespoons sugar, few drops almond or vanilla extract, one cup whipping cream (whipped), four to five ripe bananas and one baked nine-inch shell. Use ripe bananas. Fold sugar and flavoring into whipped cream. Peel and slice bananas into pie shell. Top with whipped cream. Garnish with additional banana slices if desired.

Pecan Syrup Pie is made with three slightly beaten eggs, one cup sugar, one cup dark corn syrup, one-eighth teaspoon salt, one-half to one cup pecan meats, coarsely chopped, and one recipe pastry. Mix all ingredients, add nuts last. Pour into pie pan which has been lined with pastry. Place in hot oven (450 degrees F.) about 10 minutes. Reduce to 350 degrees F. and bake until filling is firm, about 50 minutes. At end of 40 minutes, insert silver knife in filling; pie is done when knife comes out clean.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, January 23 —

AN UNUSUALLY active and progressive day is forecast by the ruling aspects. While business of a new and constructive nature will move under high pressure, there also are auguries of surprising adventures in all other lines. It may be romance, adventure, courtship or sudden marriage, whirling the happy participants into strange environs and thrilling experiences.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of great activity and unforeseen experience of a dramatic or sensational quality, both in business and in the realm of the emotions. New matters, strange adventures and all constructive enterprises will flourish and move at high tempo. Much good fortune, progress and happiness are about to materialize. It is a time for pushing to the goal of heart's desire.

A child born on this day may be unusually gifted and enterprising, with versatility, originality and creative ability. Its life may also thrive in romantic or curious adventures.

Don't neglect the bannisters. Like the door knob it accumulates soil from unclean hands and passes it on to clean ones, perhaps giving the germs of communicable sickness a free lift. When you think of all the hands that pass over the surface of the bannisters day after day you realize how much it needs frequent soap and water washing in addition to dusting every day. After washing rub with furniture oil and polish with soft, clean cloths.

PROTECTIVE DOUBLING

SOME contracts cannot be beaten unless the declarer misplays one of his suits. If you are able to do something on the defensive which will make him read your holding incorrectly, you may cause just such a fatal misplay. A double of his high contract, when you have no honor in his suit, may even any particular length, may lead him to count on you for a threat to the safety of his trumps. By so doing, you may protect a trump honor in your partner's hand, by luring the declarer into a losing finesse.

Hand: ♠ K 6, ♥ 9, ♦ A 10 7, ♣ A K Q 9 8 5 2. Declarer: South. North-South vulnerable.

West opened this deal with 1-Heart, which North doubled, and East, the canny Frederick E. Slater, leaped to 4-Hearts as a shut out. It emphatically failed to work, for South went straight to 6-Diamonds. After Mr. Slater bid 6-Hearts as a sacrifice attempt, North went to 7-Diamonds. West sacrificed at 7-Hearts.

South gave this plenty of study, then decided upon 7-Spades. Having not a solitary apparent chance to take a trick against this, Mr. Slater doubled in the East. He did this, not in spite of his inability to take any tricks, but because of it. He knew the only ghost of a show his side had to beat the contract was to find his partner with some sort of secondary honor, which might win if the declarer tried a finesse because of counting on it being in Mr. Slater's hand.

South ruffed the lead of the heart K, led to the spade K, then led the spade 6. Mr. Slater played the 3 and 4 respectively on the two spade tricks, and the crisis was now at hand. South finally decided Mr. Slater had four trumps to the J, in order to have doubled, so finessed the 10. So the J won and the contract was beaten, purely because of the misleading double.

Hand: ♠ Q 9 3, ♥ 10 2, ♦ K Q 10 6, ♣ 8 7 5 3. Declarer: South. North-South vulnerable.

If South gets into 3-No Trumps after the side bid all other suits, what heart should West lead?

Chronic Criticism Dangerous

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

JUST BECAUSE we are human beings we are more inclined to blame others than to praise them; especially is this true with our own loved ones.

If any parent will take the trouble to get a small notebook and record all the instances in which she praised her child, and all the instances in which she disapproved or scolded him, beginning at one end of the book with the praises and at the other end with the scoldings, she will probably find the book long before the end of the year. I tried this myself once and was appalled at what happened; yet, I am sure it did me good.

In the following remarks from a letter by a high school girl we see a vivid sample of excessive, chronic fault-finding and its dire consequences.

"I do appreciate things and I do tell her so, often. I can do things, too. Two summers ago she had a serious operation and was not expected to live. When she came home from the hospital I took care of her, did the washing and ironing without help, kept the house perfectly clean, did all the cooking and helped take care of the garden. There isn't much to do here. I have five rooms and a bath—and I always do the cleaning myself or more than half of it. In the summer I dust every day, iron, do the cleaning and the dishes, make the beds and mow the lawn. Sir, I don't know what else I could do. I can bake. My cakes always come out right. I try to do everything well but I can't do anything right at home."

"Without giving me a chance to say anything she starts in. I can't stand it. Day after day I'm told I'm no good, can't do anything right. . . . Sometimes I get so discouraged I tell her I'm going to quit being to be a good girl and be like other girls—sleep till 12 o'clock in the summer, never do any work, run around with boys and do things I shouldn't. . . . I could do one little thing to please her, just one thing!

Teachers Considerate.

"My teachers believe in me and want to help me go through college. . . . Surely I'm some good. I never have to study hard and I work on the school paper where I was awarded 'Quill and Scroll.' The award is based on character, workmanship and writing. Only two people in the history of our school received this award before."

I'm also on the dramatic club, Latin club. . . . I work hard at clubs. I was elected to the student council. . . .

"I'm not telling mother I've written this. It's the first thing I've kept from her. . . . Even though you can't help me perhaps it's good to get it off my mind. . . ."

Although I wrote this young lady, suggesting how she might change her mother, it seems to me too bad that a child must have so great responsibility as to try to make a parent over. The letter is a good warning signal to all parents.

Solving Parent Problems.

Q. Should one whisper or tip-toe about the house while the baby is asleep or after he has been put to bed?

A. Certainly not. At such times speak and move about in a wholly normal fashion and the infant, soon will accustom himself to these noises.

Whenever you wash let soap, rather than friction, do the work and you will spare yourself and the contents of the wash tub. Rubbing is the part that is hard? est on fabrics. And remember that the longer soiled clothes or household linens go without washing the more rubbing they are likely to need.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calling—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Ready to Go

The liver should pump out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks pink.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 16¢ and 25¢. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

SPORTS PARADE On Block

By HENRY McEMORE
SAN FRANCISCO—(UP)—First it was Joe DiMaggio. Then it was Vince Di Maggio, and then Dominic DiMaggio. Now it is San Salvatore DiMaggio who has been plucked off a fishing boat by that avid collector of DiMaggios, Lefty O'Doul, manager of the San Francisco baseball club.

All O'Doul knows about San Salvatore DiMaggio is that he has the right name; that he fishes left-handed; and that he can go to his right or left for a flounder, cod, or tuna. But that is enough, and when the San Francisco team starts spring training next month San Salvatore will be there.

O'Doul owes his success in signing San Salvatore to a trout to the speed and efficiency with which he investigates any tips that a DiMaggio is loose on a fishing boat in the Pacific. Lefty has a day and night phone and his tipsters can reach him 24 hours a day.

Tied up at a nearby wharf is a fast speed boat, and ten minutes after he was informed of San Salvatore's presence on a smack off Monterey, O'Doul was at the controls of the boat and skimming down the coast.

Rival baseball managers, keen for a DiMaggio, were outdistanced by O'Doul, and he had already boarded San Salvatore's craft and was explaining the rudiments of the game of baseball to him when his rivals reached the scene.

Disappointed, they circled the boat while the triumphant O'Doul called to them that DiMaggio was not only San Salvatore's real name, but not just a "nom de piscatore," but that he was a cousin of the DiMaggios.

There have been two major discoveries in California. In 1849 gold was discovered at the mill of old John Sutter and one of great treasure hunts of all time was on.

In 1935, 86 years later, the DiMaggios were discovered and another mad rush was begun. Until the DiMaggio lode was uncovered on fishing smacks, baseball explorers had never thought to turn to the sea for riches.

They had done the major part of their unearthing on the soil of sandlots. Then, on a tipy fish-lake smack, that nugget of out-fishers, Joe DiMaggio was uncovered, then Vince DiMaggio and the then Dominic were major discoveries.

O'Doul firmly believes that there is no such thing as a bad baseball DiMaggio, anymore than there is a bad sunrise.

"Some are better than others," he philosophizes, "but give me a man with two arms, two legs, and a surname of DiMaggio and he can play on my team. Besides, San Salvatore has the stuff. I saw him catch an eel and any man who has the hands to catch an eel can handle a baseball."

JAP 'PUPPET RULE' TO FAIL

That's Claim of Writer Who Says Move Foredoomed to Disappointment.

needed to deal with the China situation, not a constant shifting of men and changing policies. The Japanese zone, misleading the Japanese in thoughts motivated by pecuniary inducements, and blackening Japan's name wherever they set up regimes.

Rehabilitation of the vastly deteriorated level of all occupied areas is one of Japan's giant tasks. Years will be required for recovery.

Rehabilitation means conscripting Chinese labor and forcing it back to the farm or to work on

Mansfield's Daughter Tells of Young's Arrest

The author of this series of stories, James R. Young, has been detained by Japanese police in Tokyo who gave no explanation for his arrest. The story of his arrest was cabled to International News headquarters in New York by Young's wife who is the daughter of J. E. Willis, 551 Park avenue west, Mansfield. Mrs. Young reported her husband was taken into custody a short time after he returned from an extensive tour through the war areas of China.

public projects. The brutality imposed on the Chinese in this district will not be forgotten. Only coolies are left, poor wretches, to be fed or shot.

The system of monopolies and channeling of trade by Japanese interests, as in the egg scandal wherein Japan's largest mercantile firm hijacked and stole American owned egg shipments, has fallen into the hands of racketeers. This discourages free trade or development of industries. Neither the farmer nor the Chinese manufacturer feels under Japanese control that he is adequately paid for his produce or manufactured articles.

Farmers who produce goods yell their heads off at home but not in front of the Japanese sentries who guard every village and town—that they are underpaid for their crops. It follows that in 1940 the Chinese farmer in the Japanese-puppet zones will grow only enough for himself to live on. He will become a subsistence man instead of a market producer. Why? He does not trust his only market and its prices—the Japanese dominated market.

How then can Japan exploit China successfully? In her own empire she suffers from shortage of products, rice included, fuel, lack of labor, higher costs of living. Manchuria is as good as bankrupt because the economic understanding with Germany failed. Cash trade with Russia is worth not more than ten first class round the world-cruise tickets.

Underlying distrust and mutual hatred are the net results of Japan's campaign in China—now approaching its 31st month.

CITY TRAFFIC GOES CRASHLESS

No Accidents Involving Injuries Reported; Eight Killed in State Over Week-End.

Despite hazardous driving conditions which made skidding accidents numerous, Mansfield got through the weekend without a single traffic injury although at least eight fatalities were reported in the state.

Four of the victims were pedestrians. Another was struck by a locomotive and the other three died in collisions.

The first traffic fatality in Conneaut in more than two years claimed the life of Edward L. Dixon, 26, of East Conneaut. He died 10 hours after an auto he was in crashed into a pole. Two others in the car were injured. Conneaut had no traffic deaths in 1935 and 1936.

Breaking away from his sister and darting into the street while returning home from a show, John Lee, 6, was killed by an automobile in Cleveland.

An automobile skidded in front of a Pennsylvania train near Piqua, killing Mary Jane Wilson, 18, and her fiancé, Earl D. Idle, 21. Miss Wilson's father, Lloyd Wilson, reported the accident to Coroner Cecil Marshall before he learned that his daughter was a victim. Tire marks showed the car had skidded.

Pictured above is one of the countless automobiles to "crack up" as the result of icy roads during the past few days. This one, driven by A. E. Steffen, of Parma, ended up in the front yard of an Ashland road residence Saturday evening when the driver lost control. The skidding machine clipped off a utility pole. Steffen and three others in the car escaped injury.

BORAH LIVED HUMBLY, READ BIBLE DAILY

'Divine Conscience Rules All Humanity,' He Once Said; Lived Simple Life.

(Editor's Note: While millions knew the face and words of U. S. Senator William E. Borah, few knew the man Borah as did William K. Hutchinson, chief of International News Service Washington Bureau. In this, the second of a series of articles, Mr. Hutchinson draws an intimate picture of the statesman, based on years of close association.)

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON (Copyright, 1940)

WASHINGTON—William Edgar Borah was a deeply religious man, worshipping God without fanfare and living humbly with a tremendous respect for the simple virtues of truth, honesty and sobriety.

Born of 'God-fearing' parents, Borah early in life became accustomed to daily reading of the Bible. From this early teaching, he took with him through life a high sense of personal honor, a contempt for expediency and a mind ruled only by his conscience.

Borah carried his religion deep in his soul. Time and again in our conversations, his remarks touched upon religion. Each remark was uttered with sincerity and conviction. Once I brought up the question of the "existence of God." He spoke then with explosive force:

"Of course there is a God. This would be a truly hell of a place to live in if there was no God."

With a wave of his arm to encompass the Capitol itself, the smooth green lawns around it, the growing leaf-laden trees, the expanse of cloud-studded skies, he demanded.

"How could you explain all this, if there is no God? I am not certain about his manifestation but I am certain that a divine conscience rules humanity—rules all this."

He believed deeply in religious liberty. He rejoiced frequently that the guarantee of religious liberty was in the constitution. Once, while the Ku Klux Klan was in high power, he remarked: "I shall always defend religious liberty in this nation even if it should cost me everything I have—my senate seat or life itself."

"It Isn't Right."

Many times, while discussing political moves, he would dismiss a proposed act with these words: "It may be expedient but it isn't right."

Borah lived simply. He rode a street car to the Capitol for years. Later, he used a motor bus that happened to pass the door of his hotel home. In late years, he owned a small sedan. But that was Mrs. Borah's. They had a negro to operate it because Borah never learned to drive a car.

On frequent visits to the White House, he would ride in a luxurious presidential limousine. This tickled him. Many times he began telling me of a White House visit with these words:

"The president sent his limousine for me today and I visited him."

Depending on the year, he would be referring to Coolidge, Hoover or Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Borah was a man of simple tastes. I lunched with him hundreds of times. He ate frugally, almost sparingly, and along dietary lines. He favored apples, peaches, plums—what ever fruit was in season. He always had one in his pocket, brought from home, when he met me for lunch. He would pare it at the table—and eat it largely off his knife, but don't tell that to children.

He liked orange juice and cautioned me continually to drink more of it. He said it kept your teeth good late in life. He drank one large glass of it around noon, lunching about 1:30. A favorite dish was broiled lamb chops or any broiled fish. He ate his steaks rare, the "raser the better, because rare meat is easily digested."

He didn't care for spinach.

His last gift to me was an Idaho peach. He was proud of it, as proud as though it were made of gold.

Borah loved ice cream. He constantly urged me to eat it with him. He liked "sundaes" of his own making. He used fruit juices whenever he could get fresh fruit, mashing the fruit into a pulp to get the juice to spread upon his ice cream. When limited to regular "sundaes," he preferred chocolate.

He had two forms of exercise—walking and horseback riding.

Liked Sunbath.

He loved to walk in the sunshine but also "exercised" in early evening twilight near his hotel home. I walked with him hundreds of times in the tree-shaded capitol grounds or in a little park across from his office. He liked to sit in the sunshine, gently debating pending political questions—even on bitter cold days.

"I like the sunshine," he would say. "You should get more of it."

One unusually cold day, I was heavily bundled but thoroughly chilled while sitting with him on a marble balustrade in the park. I complained and warned him he would catch cold, since he wore a light topcoat.

"This isn't cold," he replied. "You ought to go to Idaho to be in cold weather. This weather is really spring out there."

He had a swell sense of humor, he loved retelling stories his wife had told on him. He despised amut and cheapness.

Borah was a fine horseman. Here in Washington or out in Idaho, he rode daily until recent years. One of his favorite stories concerned himself and one of his horses, "Jester." It was about the time "Jester" got mad at him.

Riding in the capital's Rock Creek park, Borah was immersed in thought and failed to speak to the horse. "Jester," to attract attention, shied and jolted him. Borah struck the horse a blow with his crop. At the end of the ride, "Jester" refused his daily ration of sugar when Borah offered it.

Borah went to the senate, but worried deeply about "Jester being mad at me." He grew so concerned that he finally left the senate, returned to the stables in midafternoon and undertook to make peace with the horse. "Jester" finally took the sugar.

The "Lion of Idaho" was content.

LEADERS SHOW FRACTIONAL PRICE CHANGES

Stock Market Seeks Direction Sign-Posts; U. S. Steel Among Leaders.

(By Associated Press) NEW YORK—The stock market went uneventfully for direction sign-posts today and leading issues showed fractional price changes either way.

Inclined to slip a shade were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Consolidated Edison, General Electric, Sears Roebuck U. S. Rubber and Douglas Aircraft.

Up at one time were Youngtown Steel, Anaconda, Kennecott, Western Union, N. Y. Central and Standard Oil of N. J.

News apparently was unexciting marketwise. European securities markets were fairly steady. Bonds were selectively high and commodities mixed.

Financial quarters found a grain of comfort in the survey of the magazine Steel. While buying of metal continues below shipments, it was said, consumer inventories are under the level that would suggest any more abrupt curtailment in buying so long as requirements hold near the current rate.

Lumber production, considered an important economic barometer by some, appeared to be offering resistance to downward industrial trends in other lines.

Senate Backing $13,000,000 Slash In Defense Funds

BI-PARTISAN BLOC WINNING MORE SUPPORT

Barkley, Predicting Adoption of Reduced Figure, Says Action Due Tomorrow.

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON — Powerful bi-partisan support developed today behind a senate appropriations committee proposal to chop nearly $13,000,000 from the house bill for emergency defense and neutrality expenses.

The measure was whittled in the house $20,176,935 below budget bureau recommendations. As approved by the senate committee, it would appropriate $251,822,588.

Democratic Leader Barkley, predicting senate adoption of the reduced figure, said the chamber would take up the legislation tomorrow. Both senate and house were in recess today for the state funeral of Senator Borah (R., Idaho).

The house rule committee, however, called a session to consider the resolution of Rep. Dies (D., Tex.) for revival of his committee on un-American activities. The house will vote on the question tomorrow.

Barkley's forecast of a senate cut in the special appropriation bill brought a comment from Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, that Republicans generally would support the committee reductions.

Navy Plans Hit.

Senator Byrnes (D., S.C.), a member of the appropriations committee, said a substantial portion of the proposed reduction was in funds for navy patrol planes. He added that the navy's chief need at present was additional training ships.

The committee voted to defer for at least six months purchase of 81 scouting and bombing planes costing $5,075,000. Reductions in army funds included a $3,000,000 cut in a proposed $18,000,000 allotment for big-scale field maneuvers.

"I do not believe in getting hysterical about national defense," remarked Senator Bankhead (D., Ala.). "The new budget would take $500,000,000 away from the farmers and use it for defense and other purposes."

A senate appropriations subcommittee will start work this week on the $1,100,187,000 house-approved bill containing funds for independent federal agencies.

Several members predicted the group would uphold house action in eliminating funds for three presidentially-created agencies—the national resources planning board, the office of government reports and the council of personnel administration.

Three Jailed In Loudonville Equity Safe-Cracking Job

Three men, all said to have jail records, were held in the Ashland county jail today charged with the attempted safe-cracking at the Farmers Equity warehouse at Loudonville last Wednesday.

The suspects, arrested by Akron authorities the day following the burglary, were brought to Ashland Saturday night by Sheriff Dale Hammond and Marshal R. G. Schmittke of Loudonville.

Arrested on warrants charging breaking and entering, they gave their names as John Spoko, 38; Harry Popovich, 32; and Clarence Zenner, 22, all of Akron.

The men were traced to Akron through a license number on a car, said to be owned by Zenner which was parked in the outskirts of Loudonville the night of the attempted safe-cracking.

Recognizing the description and license number, Akron police later picked up Zenner and his two companions.

The men are accused of breaking into the warehouse and blowing the outer door from the safe, and then stealing a radio when they failed to get the inner door of the strong box open.

Miners to Avoid 'Draft Roosevelt' Drive

DAILY SCRAPBOOK—

By R. J. Scott

Up and Down THE STREET

Frank Kohnstamm, merchandising manager at the Mansfield Westinghouse plant, was all set to have chicken for dinner yesterday but something happened to the kitchen range and as the result the family had a change of menu. Firemen called to the home shortly after 4 p. m. rescued the burned bird from the oven which had become overheated.

When a small club of women met the other day there was an interesting—and unscheduled—contest. A prize was offered to the woman whose pocketbook held the greatest number of items. Pocketbooks were emptied and objects counted and some of them had as many as 25 and 30. But the contest was won by a woman who spent a half hour sorting out the objects and counting them—and the bobby pins, safety pins, hairpins, checks, letters, post cards, compact, pencils, pen, money, and other items totaled 115.

Somewhat of a financial record was set among Senior high school graduating classes by members of the January group, who will close their high school life with a large enough balance in their treasury to hold a party and dance this week in the cafeteria. There was enough left to finance both events even after the class had purchased a memorial for the school and a wristwatch as a present for their class advisor.

One of those things that "just can't happen" did happen to a Mansfield woman yesterday. Forgetting her camera which had been placed on the fender of a car at Westbrook Country club, she found the camera was still there when she got back downtown, although the car had gone down a steep hill, climbed another, and crossed two railroad tracks. The camera remained on top of the fender the entire distance.

RITES TUESDAY

Daniel Gleason Stricken at K. of C. Home.

Funeral services for Daniel Gleason, 58, who died of a heart attack while preparing to sweep the snow from the porch of the Knights of Columbus home, will be held at St. Peter's Catholic church Tuesday at 10:15 a. m. with Msgr. R. C. Goebel officiating.

Mr. Gleason, who came to Mansfield at the age of 17, had been employed at the Ohio Brass company for the past 19 years. He had been custodian of the K. of C. home for the past 15 years and was a fourth degree member of the organization.

He was found lying on the porch of the home by fellow members who removed him into the house. A physician was called and pronounced him dead. He had been in apparently good health until stricken.

After services here the body will be shipped to Jeffersonville, Ind., where he was born, for burial.

Surviving relatives include two brothers, Thomas and Robert E., both of Jeffersonville, and several nieces and nephews.

The body will be at the Geiger funeral home until time of the funeral.

SEEK TO CLEAN UP SEAL SALE

Headquarters to Remain Open Rest of Month; 4,000 Haven't Paid Yet.

An effort will be made by the Richland County Tuberculosis association during the remainder of January, to bring to a close their annual Christmas Seal sale, conducted through the mails in December.

Over 4,000 persons, to whom seals were mailed have yet to return the seals or contributions, according to Mrs. R. C. Rehder, chairman of the seal sale committee.

To date nearly 5,200 persons have contributed $4,550 in the seal sale, and it is expected that the late returns will send the fund for local tuberculosis work over the goal of $5,000, Mrs. Rehder stated.

The association's office at 59 North Mulberry street will continue to receive returns throughout the balance of the month.

"It is felt that some persons have not contributed, feeling that the levy voted for care and treatment of tubercular patients made the seal sale unnecessary," Mrs. Rehder stated, "but the money is still needed."

The associations' tuberculosis clinics reveal what patients need the treatment, and no public funds can be spent under the present law for the discovery of tubercular cases, but only for the care and treatment, she pointed out.

SOAP MANUFACTURER BESTS FILM COLONY ON 'HIGHEST PAID' LIST

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON—A soap manufacturer shoved aside all the fabulously-paid motion picture colony to rank as the nation's highest paid corporation employee in 1938. The $469,713 salary and bonus of F. A. Countway, president of Lever Brothers company in Massachusetts, topped all others in last year's corporate income tax returns.

Under a new law the treasury made public today the names of those who received more than $75,000, instead of $15,000 as in past years. This change cut the list from 50,000 to an even 400.

The list was not, however, a "400" of the nation's wealthiest people, because it excluded income from dividends or other sources not called "compensation." Thus names like Henry Ford and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., do not appear.

Thomas J. Watson, head of International Business Machines corporation, ranked second with $453,440, and not until sixth place did actress Claudette Colbert's $301,944 appear as the best that Hollywood could do.

An unexplained technicality, however, excluded from the list all the wealthy executives and artists of Loew's Incorporated and its subsidiary, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer pictures. Louis B. Mayer, M-G-M head who led all others on the 1937 salary list with $1,161,753, was not shown for 1938.

The film paychecks listed, however, included: Warner Baxter, $279,807; Producer Darryl F. Zanuck, $265,000; Bing Crosby, $260,000; Jack Benny, $250,000 (from Paramount Pictures alone); and income from radio and other sources apparently did not exceed $75,000 from any one employer: Shirley Temple, $114,848; Leslie Howard, $141,249; Loretta Young, $181,615; Fred Mac Murray, $183,333; George Raft, $186,964; Gary Cooper, $140,129; Bob Burns, $155,552; Marlene Dietrich $130,000; Charles Boyer, $161,000; and Tyrone Power, $140,750.

Others were: Charles F. Kettering of General Motors, $192,923; and A. W. Robertson, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, $175,000.

Mansfielder Who Fled London Prison Farm Arrested.

Fred Mamber, 45, of Mansfield who walked away from the London prison farm last June 26, is serving a term in San Quentin prison, California, for an attempted hold-up. Richland county authorities had learned today.

Mamber was sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary from Richland county in December, 1938, to serve a one-to-three-year term for non-support. He was later transferred to the London prison farm.

PROBE CHURCH FIRE

NORTH BALTIMORE — A fire which destroyed the North Baltimore Methodist church early Sunday, with loss estimated at $50,000, had not been determined today. The church pipe organ was the only one in the village.

CONVENTION IN OHIO TO CALL FOR 'LIBERAL'

Union Leader Intimates Group Will Refrain From Specific Endorsements at Parley.

(By United Press) COLUMBUS, O.—An influential leader of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers union (CIO) expressed doubt today that the union's golden jubilee convention opening Tuesday would join the campaign to "draft" President Roosevelt for a third term.

This official, who would not be quoted directly, said it was more likely that the 2,000 delegates representing approximately 600,000 members would call for the nomination of a "liberal" Democratic candidate, and leave specific endorsements to the U. M. W.'s executive board or the CIO's political arm—Labor's Non Partisan league.

The mystery surrounding Mr. Roosevelt's plans probably will prevent outright endorsement of any other Democratic possibility, such as Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, only potential candidate invited to address the convention, it was said.

Wheeler will speak Friday. Wheeler's invitation, and Lewis' description of him as a "great liberal" and "one of our most eminent contemporary statesmen," are regarded as significant political straws.

The third term issue may get before the convention in the form of resolutions of some local unions demanding Mr. Roosevelt's reelection. Eight of the U. M. W.'s locals submitted "draft" demands at the convention in Washington two years ago, but these were put aside, and the same action is anticipated this year.

It has never been indicated clearly just what Lewis, the CIO or the Mine Workers' union would do if faced with a third-term candidacy, and this question probably can not be answered until after the Republican nominee is chosen. There has been abundant evidence, however, that Lewis and Roosevelt are not as friendly as they were four, or even two, years ago.

FAIR ENOUGH!

CIO Majority Rule Forces Members to Contribute to Cause Which They Oppose

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—It really does no good to argue with those who are devoted to the CIO, because they start from the premise that majority rule cancels minority rights and that organized labor must engage in politics. Anyone who does not concede these things as a beginning is a Fascist.

But I hold that even a standpoint or reactionary Republican has rights and that if he is forced to join a CIO union he ought not be compelled to contribute the tiniest fraction of his union dues to the support of the Democratic ticket. He should not be forced even to lend that much money for that purpose. That means that the CIO has no right to give or lend any money to any political party or movement unless there is entire unanimity in the whole organization.

It means, further, that the CIO and its component unions have no right to endorse the New Deal, for example, or the ham 'n' egg plan or the Spanish Loyalist cause, the endorsement of which did cause serious trouble in the Newspaper guild, as long as there is a single dissenting vote.

Anyone who maintains the right of the CIO or any component union to endorse any of these things by majority vote places no limit on the variety of things that may be endorsed in this way. The majority could endorse atheism, for example, or free love, and contribute to campaign funds for these purposes, in which case dissenters would have to choose between losing their right to work and the sacrifice of their principles.

The majority could endorse the Communist ticket and contribute to the Communist campaign fund, thus forcing dissenters to support a movement which they held to be traitorous. The CIO has no right to declare for or against propositions which are matters of morals or religious or partisan faith while insisting on the right to compel people to join its ranks.

If membership were optional the sky would be the limit. The majority then could endorse to their hearts' content and give the entire union treasury to any cause favored by 51 per cent of the members. The minority could get out.

Every man should be free to dissociate himself from any organization which is striving for aims that violate his conscience. But membership is not optional. Thus thousands of Americans are compelled to join in order to obtain or hold jobs, and the CIO would force them to contribute.

That is the simplest and only honest solution of a question that causes almost homicidal wrangles between men. The next best solution, paradoxically, is much worse. That alternative is to use government authority to prevent unions from engaging in political activity or mixing commitments and contributions outside the narrow, legitimate range of union aims.

The CIO would call this a Fascist argument, but I submit that the CIO is much more Fascistic or, if you will, Communistic, there being no difference between one and the other.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

Dear Robbin: When you asked me to write a guest column, my misguided friend, you knew not what you did, for in me you behold a man with a beef against columnists, and in particular Hollywood columnists who combine columnizing with critical reviews of screenplays. How long we from those self-anointed pundit, comments such as: "The outstanding direction of Whosis, who so magnificently overcame the handicap of an inept script—" or: "The directorial skill of Wumpus, who, using no dialogue, but with masterly use of pantomime, brought to such-and-such a scene the gift of pure genius."

Now this may or may not be probably not, since a director works from the script, where all of the dialogue and most of the business is written in for the guidance of himself and the cast; but my quarrel is not with the directors, admirable fellows many of them, and not to be blamed for complacent acceptance of unsolicited kudos, no matter how tenuously earned. My beef is against the gratuitously assumed omniscience of the columnist who, without having read the screenplay, thus blithely can bestow his critical but spurious largesse.

Those omnipotent, all-seeing fellows! How uncaringly they castigated the wrong culprit, one saying: "The brilliant direction of So-and-So did its utmost to give charm and lightness to a heavy script," and another, in proud demonstration of his historical knowledge, deploring the ignorance of the screenplay writer in distorting historic fact—when actually, I had only followed the plot and detail of the original play.

So that, multiplied by countless similar ineptitudes—how I love that word!—is the foundation of my beef against the Hollywood columnist-critic, over whom seems to hang the odor of a vineyard, the succulent but to him—unattainable fruit of which is never ripe.

By the way—about the time this appears I shall have a new picture released. Do I hear the jackals' distant yelp?

Seeks to Legalize Road Blockades In Hunting Season

CONSERVATION OFFICIALS MAP NEW OHIO LAW

Waters Claims Method Most Effective to Put Curb on Game Violations.

(By International News Service) COLUMBUS — The state conservation department today began to draft legislation for submission to the legislature which would legalize the "road blockades" that confronted Ohio hunters during the 1938 season.

Last season the blockades, termed by Conservation Commissioner Don G. Waters as the most effective method of combatting game law violations, were discontinued when Attorney General Thomas Herbert ruled them illegal.

Waters revealed his plans to bring the blockades within the law as he addressed the annual winter convention of the League of Ohio Sportsmen.

The commissioner pleaded with the 500 sportsmen for an understanding attitude in the matter, and asked them to co-operate with the department in obtaining favorable consideration of the proposed legislation.

"While it may be a hardship on hunters to stop their cars in a search for illegal game, I believe that sportsmen will take into consideration the fact that their future hunting is being protected by the move," Waters declared.

"We have found the blockade to be not only the best method of catching violators but the best method of reducing violations. Few hunters will take a chance on shooting illegal game if they know they may be stopped on the way home."

Discuss Quail Shooting.

Quail shooting—ever a sore point—again came up for discussion at the meeting when Harry Hutchins president of the Southwestern Ohio Sportsmen's league, urged the bob-white be taken off the song-bird list. He urged "sympathetic consideration" by sportsmen in other sections of the state toward the movement to place the bird on the game list in the southwest part of Ohio.

"Quail are now being shot in our part of the country because hunters have no other wing shooting available," Hutchins asserted. "It's worse than bootlegging during the prohibition era."

"The bob-white, being on the song bird list and hence not protected by a closed season, is hunted at all times. If an open season were established, he would at least be protected throughout most of the year."

ONCE KIDNAPED, ENDS OWN LIFE

Mary McElroy, Daughter of Ex-Kansas City Manager, Shoots Self.

Seven years ago, during the kidnappers' trial, a defense attorney asked McElroy: "But your daughter was not harmed?"

"Yes," McElroy answered, "my daughter has been injured to the extent that I fear she never will get over it."

Yesterday morning Miss McElroy's maid found her body on a divan on the sun porch of her home, a .25 caliber pistol on the floor. A police examination showed powder burns on her right hand.

She left a note, unaddressed: "My four kidnappers are probably the only people on earth who don't consider me an utter fool."

"You have your death penalty now—so—please—give them a chance."

Four men kidnaped Miss McElroy from her bath May 27, 1933. They chained her in the basement of a house near Shawnee, Kas., for nearly 30 hours.

They asked $60,000 ransom, but her father settled for $30,000.

Three of the men were apprehended and convicted. Walter McGee was sentenced to the gallows but Miss McElroy herself appealed to Guy B. Park, then governor, and Park commuted his sentence to life imprisonment, the same as imposed on his brother George.

Clarence Chick, who lived in the farmhouse, was sentenced to eight years but was released in 1938. Clarence Stephens still is at large.

The McGee brothers' lips trembled when they were told of Miss McElroy's death.

"I wouldn't have felt the loss of my own sister more," said George. "... she was very good to us."

Walter recalled: "The day we got her she acted like she had known us all her life. She told us she was our friend but that she didn't like our racket."

His statement declared he has an "immense admiration for President Roosevelt" whom the brotherhood supported in 1936, but "I think we may take it for granted he will not be a candidate for a third term."

Scores of mail orders for tags were being filled today by Dog Warden William Miller and Harry Koch, a deputy in the auditor's department.

Dogs without tags may be picked up by the dog warden and taken to the county pound. There is a penalty of $1 for late purchasers of tags.

1,000 UNTAGGED

Dog Owners Fail to Get Under 1940 License Deadline.

More than 1,000 Richland county dogs are still without their 1940 tags, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe estimated today, although the old tag deadline was Saturday.

The auditor and five assistants sold 1,400 tags Saturday as dog owners jammed the courthouse to get under the deadline. Approximately 5,000 tags had been sold up to today and Wolfe estimated the county's dog population at more than 6,000.

Administration leaders previously had agreed that the measure would be called up for passage tomorrow.

The committee rejected pleas of representatives Dempsey (D-N. M.) and Casey (D. Mass.) of the Dies group that the legislation be amended to provide certain restrictions on procedure of the investigators.

BROADER PROBE OF 'CHRISTIAN FRONT' SET; COUGHLIN BACKS IT

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — A broadened grand jury investigation was promised today in the government's revolution conspiracy case against 17 "Christian front" defendants, as Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, calling himself a "friend of the accused," came to their defense.

The 17, arrested last Sunday in raids that also netted arms, ammunition and bomb-making paraphernalia, are in jail in lieu of $50,000 bail each. Each says he is innocent of any attempt to overthrow or sabotage the government.

Atty. Gen. Robert H. Jackson said in Washington last night that the grand jury meeting this week in Brooklyn would cover the activities "of any individual or group wherever located who may have aided, abetted, directed, financed or incited" the defendants.

Father Coughlin explained in his regular Sunday broadcast, "I do not belong to any unit of the Christian front; nevertheless, I do not disassociate myself from that movement. Therefore, I reaffirm every word which I have said in advocating its formation. I encourage Christians of America to carry on its formation."

"Insofar as the public press—not the department of justice—has placed the Christian front on trial, insinuating that it is a radical movement and asserting that it is composed entirely of crackpots, I take my stand beside the Christian frontiers."

He said that, "recognizing also that in one sense the opposition to communism is on trial, I freely choose to be identified as a friend of the accused."

FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover said the 17 had been training to set up a Hitler-like, Jew-baiting government in this country.

THANKS TO VENDOL, I FEEL FINER THAN IN MANY YEARS

Mansfield hotel employee says he hopes other sufferers will profit by his experience. Eats anything now without distress since constipation was relieved by Vendol.

The popular medicine Vendol has won enthusiastic praise from thousands of men and women who had suffered from many troubles caused by constipation and need of a diuretic to the kidneys such as a sour, acid, gassy stomach, bloating, shortness of breath, bilious dizziness, muscular aches and pains and other symptoms. Mr. Samuel O. Darling, who resides at 98 Blanch St., Mansfield, and is employed at the Southern Hotel, is among the latest to tell how Vendol brought relief from suffering that almost wrecked his health.

"I really felt so bad at times that it seemed I couldn't keep going," declared Mr. Darling. "I was constipated daily, and this made me turn against most all food, and what I did eat seemed to do but little good and lay heavy in my stomach, turned sour, and formed so much gas that it made my breath come hard and often sent sharp pains through my stomach; in fact, caused no end of misery."

"This constipated condition also made me nervous so that my sleep was broken and failed to rest and refresh me and I'd start the day feeling worn-out, tired and exhausted."

"A friend recommended Vendol to me and I also read a lot about it."

"Vendol gave prompt and complete relief from the constipation; then the other troubles passed off so that nothing I eat now upsets my stomach and I have no signs of all the other miseries. I hope others will profit by my experience and give Vendol a chance to help them."

Vendol is a medicine made from extracts of Roots and Herbs with Alkaline added and is truly a grand compound, so don't delay getting a bottle from most any drug store."

TELLS GRADS OF FOUR DESIRES

Rev. Hagelbarger Urges Students Not to Be Sidetracked From Life Aims.

(Continued From Page 1) among friends, in social life and in matters of trade. If we become mere ciphers or cogs in a wheel then we will live unworthily and lose our grip on the high things of life. This desire for recognition and understanding goes to the very heart of friendship."

"The third is the desire to be useful," he told the seniors. "At our best we want to do something and make some contribution to our day and generation. We ought to have some purpose worthy of us and give out best to it. No one wants to live a useless life. There is honor, dignity, discipline and satisfaction in hard work."

"Fourth and last is the desire for a philosophy which life cannot whip. As we go forth to face the realities and hardships of a flesh and blood world, we need a sustaining philosophy of life. There are three attitudes that we may take towards life. First, when we face an intolerable situation we can quit, give up and try to run away. Second, we can carry on but feel there is no chance to win. This attitude makes us embittered with our lot. Third, we can face life with head up and make every experience contribute to our enrichment."

"A vital religious faith in your fellowmen and in the living God is at the heart of this attitude," Rev. Hagelbarger said. "If you believe that good is stronger than evil and that it will finally triumph then you do not fight alone."

The service was conducted by Rev. Grover E. Swower, pastor of the Lutheran church, and Rev. Hagelbarger gave the benediction. Attired in their caps and gowns, members of the class were seated in a body in the center of the auditorium. Members of the high school faculty and the board of education also attended the service.

Mrs. Bruce Rogers of the First Christian church sang "The Lord's Prayer," as the offertory solo, and the Lutheran choir, directed by Frederick Wolf, presented the anthem, "March of the Priests" which was played as the processional and recessional by Miss Vivian Miller, a member of the graduating class.

Renshaw, in estimating his loss at $12,000, said the blaze was caused by the explosion of an oil stove he kept in the building to keep the apples from freezing.

Earl Griffith Seeks Re-Nomination

MT. GILEAD — Secretary of State Earl Griffith of Mt. Gilead today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for a second term.

Griffith said his platform will be based on savings he effected in election procedure, investigation and persecution of election irregularities, simplification of the election laws, and economies in the operation of his office.

Dr. John M. Thomas of Columbus has been named chairman of Griffith's campaign committee. The secretary of state said his campaign will be conducted from the office of the Morrow County Sentinel, his newspaper at Mt. Gilead.

A native of Centerville, Knox county, Griffith has served as postmaster at Mt. Gilead and in 1934 was Republican campaign chairman in Ohio. He succeeded his father and grandfather as publisher of the Sentinel. He is married and has a son and two daughters.

Griffith said he had been informed that eight out of every nine hydrants in the city had been frozen.

FREEZING FIRE HYDRANT BLAME PLACED ON WPA

Chief Says Workers and City's Building Contractors Use Plugs, Don't Shut Off.

Charges that the WPA and city building contractors were responsible for the unusual number of frozen fire hydrants during the sub-zero wave here last week were made this morning by Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger at a conference with Mayor William J. Locke.

Seeburger accused WPA workers and builders of using the hydrants to obtain water and then failing to close them properly. He told the mayor that he had suggested several times to WPA officials and contractors that they notify the fire department when an outlet was used so it could be checked by the department before a freeze.

He also asserted that a city ordinance requiring persons opening a fire hydrant to receive permission from his office has never been followed and asked the mayor to inform WPA and builders that they were faced with a penalty for failure to observe the law.

Locke, following the session, which was held in the fire chief's office, said he would take the necessary steps to inform persons opening fire hydrants of their responsibilities.

He said he had gone to Seeburger to "clear up" the question involving the number of hydrants that were found frozen last Thursday and Friday.

Seeburger told him that only six hydrants were found frozen last Friday and two the following day. He said they had all been steamed out and that daily inspection of hydrants was being conducted. Locke said he had been informed that eight out of every nine hydrants in the city had been frozen.

Mansfield News-Journal AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, JANUARY 22, 1940.

When the Finns capture a Red they give him a bath—which may account for so many retreats.

Mayor La Guardia of New York wants the federal government to collect all the local taxes. That would make local officials more popular.

From the emergency ward in a western hospital a badly battered patient announces that never again will he pour kerosene on the kindling when starting a fire—further confirming a belief that Experience is an excellent teacher.

Needless Waste of Money

EXCEPT for the politically-minded few, who have no regard for costs—as long as it is public money that is being spent—the idea of calling special primaries and election to fill a short-time vacancy in the office of congressman from this district will give the impression of being a needless extravagance.

With a special election set by Governor Bricker for February 27, and adjournment of congress likely to come early in June, there is no apparent reason for spending the thousands of dollars involved in holding special primaries and election.

The position of County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe, in protesting to Governor Bricker against the expenditure of $6,000 to $7,000 which this county "can ill-afford to pay when relief bills are mounting and we are trying to meet our operating costs" seems much sounder than that of the governor.

It may also be noted that a recent news item disclosed that the office of the late Congressman William A. Ashbrook is to be kept open in Washington until his successor is chosen and that the facilities of the office will be available to constituents as heretofore. While this does not involve direct representation in action by congress during the short time before adjournment of this session, it obviously offers better service to constituents, through an experienced office staff, than would be possible by election of an inexperienced man to congress for only a few months service.

Nor can special primaries and election be expected to draw to the polls a sufficient percentage of the voters of this and other counties in the Seventeenth district to make the selection representative of the desires of the electorate in filling this important position, as could be done if the choice were deferred until the regular May primaries and the November election.

Freedom's Battle Front

FINLAND is on the high road from Russia to the Scandinavian peninsula. And Norway and Sweden, guarding the North sea, are on the road to England and France. If Scandinavia falls, it will be divided between Russia and Germany. The allied dictators will then be in immensely better position to strike down the big and little democracies of western Europe.

The Finns therefore seem, at present, to be holding the fort for European democracy. How long they can continue is one of the most serious questions now facing civilization. Obviously they cannot hold out much longer without money, materials and troops. Britain and France have begun to send help, but it doesn't amount to much yet. There is a steady trickle of Swedes and Norwegians into Finland, to reinforce the long, thin line on the eastern frontier, but the situation calls for new armies on that front.

Many Learning to Fly

THE civilian pilot training program of the Civil Aeronautics Authority which was authorized by congress last August has met with enthusiastic response in the 400 colleges and universities participating. More than 9,000 students have been taking lessons and 1,200 of them have reached the solo stage. Students have already flown 35,000 hours without serious accident of any kind. The C. A. A. believes that nearly 10,000 new pilots will have certificates by the middle of the summer.

It is easier to make good planes than to make competent pilots. That is said to be a weak spot in Germany's otherwise great air force; the reich cannot afford to lose many pilots because it cannot replace them with others equally good. England and France also have anxious thoughts on this phase of their war preparation.

Training large numbers of skilled flyers in this country by means of the civilian flying program is expected to keep the supply of pilots adequate to the supply of planes. Flying here is already well developed commercially and looks toward future expansion.

Kelley Again Complimented

ONCE MORE a state examiner has found occasion to compliment the work of Paul L. Kelley in the office of city auditor, where he is entering his seventeenth year, having already served six 2-year terms and one of four years.

This is an example, if one is needed, of the advantage of keeping a qualified person, of dependable honesty, in a responsible public position beyond the time which custom has prescribed as a reasonable limit.

It reverses, of course, an older idea that political jobs should be passed around as a reward for partisan activity, and accepts the theory that ability is as essential to public as to private employment.

Complimentary reference to the excellence of Kelley's handling of the business of the city auditor's office has been made by state examiners regularly for years—and with the frequent changes, and consequent inexperience, entering into the administration of other departments of city government, it has been a satisfaction to know that the supervision of finances has been in safe hands over a long period.

Collecting Water Bills

FROM far-off Lakeview, Ore., comes word of a different way that has been hit upon to collect delinquent water bills, of which there are some just about everywhere.

The new plan works like a charm, says the head of the water department. When citizens are delinquent, he doesn't argue and browbeat them. He just attaches a little gadget to the customer's water meter. It doesn't turn off the water, but checks the flow so that a mere dribble comes from the faucets. After waiting a couple of times for enough water to trickle out to wash the dishes or fill a bathtub, the customer rushes to the water office eager to pay.

Word comes that Fuchin Fritz Kohn doesn't mix with other inmates of Sing Sing—and the others may also be careful of the company they keep.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—One of the nice things about knowing Charles E. Rochester, friend and fellow Louisianian, is that he knows a lot of people who shoot a lot of wild game during the proper seasons. And as they invariably leave a lot of ducks and geese and turkeys hanging on his game-rack, he gives wonderful game dinners to which this hungry reporter is occasionally invited.

There was the time of blessed memory a few weeks back when the dinner was wild duck. These were greenhead mallards shot in the Arkansas swamps by Clair Maxwell, of Life magazine and shipped here by plane. They were wonderful. When the chef brought them in they looked like a page ad, in color, out of Mr. Maxwell's own magazine. Since Mr. Rochester is the managing director of the Lexington hotel, you can bet your pearl stickpin that to the chef the preparation of this dish was no perfunctory chore. It was a labor of love.

AS FIRST one bird then another migrated from the platter past our palates Clair Maxwell would say, "I shot this one just as he sailed past a cypress stump," or "I got this one just at dusk, with a load of No. 5 chill." . . . I ate my share in envious and attentive silence.

That was a few weeks ago, back there during the duck season some time . . .

Today another call came. This time it was wild turkey. A fine gobbler. What lucky hunter bagged this prize I can not say. But I can name for you the man who prepared it. It was Charles's chef, this same Michael Angelo of the kitchens who previously had prepared the mallards.

Without any adjectives I must express the opinion that here was the supreme compliment to a January day. Gluttony, they say, is an evil thing. It is one of the seven deadly sins. It is well that these feasts come not too frequently. It is well, too, that Charles in a little while will leave for Honolulu, where he spends his annual vacation. Much more of this and the chef would be demanding a raise. Clair Maxwell would come down with the gout, and I would take on those strange dizzy seizures that come when the underfed enrich their blood streams too quickly.

You heard about that one, didn't you? It is one of the all-time classics of Wall street. Somebody dropped a fortune in bonds on the sidewalk, and a poor fellow who was practically starving found them and restored them to their owners. The firm was so delighted that it gave the man an ample cash reward and also a job.

WITH all this money in his pocket the poor fellow cut a dizzy pace in the downtown district. He was the envy of the bowery. But one day several weeks after this he became violently insane. The doctors were called in. After lengthy examination they explained that he had been underfed for months. When he suddenly came into money and began feasting on thick steaks and cream, his system just couldn't stand it. His blood-stream became enriched too quickly, and he went crazy. It was a sensational, page-one story!

Charley, hurry on off to Honolulu—before I begin figuring in the news.

Marry In Church.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

DID YOU KNOW THAT—Eighty out of 100 ministers are happy but only 40 per cent of traveling salesmen? . . . Skilled office workers are much better matrimonial risks than girls who have never worked? . . . Men who go to church at least twice a month and belong to three or more clubs, labor unions or lodges are more likely to be successful husbands than the proverbial stay-at-homes?

Set you thinking, those questions, don't they? Maybe upset some of your pet notions, which will probably do heaps for what ails you. So better have a look-see at more of them in the current issue of a popular magazine. They're part of a new kind of matrimonial survey made by two sociologists—Professors Earnest W. Burgess and Leonard S. Cottrell, jr.—which they've published under the title, "Predicting Success or Failure in Marriage" (Prentice-Hall Publishers). And if you're trembling on the brink, here's your life line.

One prediction, in particular, gets my enthusiastic endorsement, namely, "CHURCH OR PERSONAGE WEDDINGS ARE MORE APT TO PRODUCE HAPPY UNIONS THAN THOSE SOLEMNIZED AT HOME OR ELSEWHERE."

"Strange advice," you think, "for a sociological survey." But it isn't. I've seen it proved true, scores of times. And it checks as surely with those who rarely enter a church as with the most devout. Why? If you're deeply religious you'll probably say it's due to the mystic power of the house of God and the blessing of His priest. But if your world mind rejects that answer, there's another reason, equally sound, why church weddings prove more lasting. Church weddings "work better" on exactly the same principle that applies to all fine effort—

WE GET IN PROPORTION TO OUR GIVING.

THE MORE WE GIVE, THE MORE WE RECEIVE.

Marriage is the most important act in our life. What do we bring to it? We bring, to any normal wedding, love and laughter, ardent vows. But to a church wedding we bring these—and something else—something we hadn't expected to give—

WE BRING OUR FINEST SELVES!

We're a little shy of those fine

Timely Editorial

Non-Political Tariff Policy. The trade agreements program shouldn't be judged by any little trickle of imports for which it may be responsible—imports that if at all formidable are restricted by quotas. It should be judged by the broad fact that it has promoted trade with other countries to the advantage of all concerned. For a revival of foreign trade could be of great help in getting out of the depression.

The proposal that the trade agreements be ratified by the senate would simply wreck the program. It would result in the old familiar wire pulling that produced the disastrous Hawley-Smoot tariff. For the first time in a generation the country is getting a tariff policy worked out on a non-political basis for the general welfare. If the nation knows what's good for it the program will be continued.—Kansas City Star.

Placing Blame For Bad Breath

—By DR. CLENDENING

What are the causes of bad breath?

(1) Decaying food particles in the mouth cavity. (2) Disease within the mouth cavity, i. e., decaying tooth, tonsil or pyorrhea. (3) Volatile substances which are absorbed from the stomach (garlic onions) get into the blood stream, and which are excreted through the lungs; they may simply seep up from the stomach. (4) Nasal disease—ozena.

A method has been described by research workers by which it is possible to determine both the intensity of odors and their source; as to whether they come from the lungs, the nose or the mouth. Certain investigators believe that food particles play a relatively insignificant part. It is true, however, that onion and garlic chewed, but not swallowed, may be detected by chemical means from 60 to 72 hours after mastication. When garlic or onion is swallowed in capsule form (so that they leave no trace in the mouth), it can be detected for a considerably longer period.

Early morning—i. e., waking—bad breath is probably due to nothing more than the stagnation of mouth fluids and desquamated epithelium in the mouth.

They're here, that shying Self you've never dared reveal . . . that quiet Presence you've never dared deny. And suddenly something new and beautiful is entering your hearts . . . something strong and wise and enduring is joining your hands—

AND YOU'RE MARRIED—TIL DEATH DO YOU PART! Marry in church! . . . I wish I might say that to every pair of lovers in the land. Marry in church, for you will take something to that church and bring something from it which you will never find in any other place on earth.

YOU WILL BRING THE BEST OF YOURSELF . . . AND THE GOD WHO MADE YOU WILL TAKE THAT GREATER SELF AND GUARD IT THROUGH ALL THE DAYS AHEAD.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"That's the ticket!" It means, "That's just right—the proper way."

Apparently typical native slang, it is to the French language that we are indebted for this Americanism.

"That's the ticket" is a corruption of the French "C'est l'etiquette," which means "That's right, proper."

The pla is on the French word etiquette signifying ticket or label as well as the observance of the forms of convention; in fact, the former is its primary sense. Pronounced quickly, it is easily comprehensible how "C'est l'etiquette" should have been corrupted by American visitors in France into "That's the ticket," in which form it made its way to our shores.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The holiday which Sistine and Buzzie Dall recently finished spending in the White House was full of excitement, but for Buzzie, at least, the most eventful day of all came just before he was about to depart for Seattle.

Waylaying the president on the way to his office, Buzzie said: "Grandpa, how's chances of having lunch with you? You promised you'd let me do that sometime, and I'm going home today."

"Okay, Buzzie," replied his doting grandfather, "it's a date. I'll see you at lunch—and be sure to wash your hands."

But when the president got to his desk, General Watson, White House appointment secretary, reminded him that he had a luncheon conference scheduled with Myron Taylor, new envoy to the Vatican, plus Secretary Hull and Under Secretary Welles.

"I guess that lets Buzzie out. Too bad; he'll be disappointed," remarked the president, and asked Watson to explain the situation to the boy.

Buzzie was heart-broken. "But why can't I come anyway?" he pleaded. "I won't say a word and I won't give away any secrets. Honest, cross my heart."

"There isn't enough room on the president's desk for five trays," ad libbed General Watson.

"Oh, that's easy," exclaimed Buzzie. "I'll put mine on the floor and eat there. Just as we do on a picnic."

The president was so amused when he heard this that he rescinded his order, and Buzzie squeezed in between his grandfather and Sumner Welles. Silently he ate his lunch at the big official table while the four grown-ups discussed high matters of state, presumably the prospects of peace in Europe and the steps which Ambassador Taylor would take to encourage them.

War Pessimism.

THE confidential war reports received by government agencies have not been too optimistic of late regarding the Allied positions.

This pessimism has nothing to do with the sudden mobilization of the Dutch and Belgians, which had behind it only the fact that the canals which constitute the best defense against Germany were frozen, and the lowland countries suddenly realized how easy it would be for the Nazis to cross.

The chief reason for pessimism is the very mediocre success of the British blockade, plus rumblings of new conversations between Russia and Germany.

How far these new conversations have gone is impossible to say. But they revolve around the Russian failure in Finland and the fact that the Russian transportation system has broken down. This gives the Germans an excellent excuse to become the technical doctors of the Soviet.

In fact, Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop, who has been under a lot of German army criticism for negotiating the Russian pact in the first place, now sees this as a golden opportunity to redeem himself. He has proposed to Stalin that Germany take over Russia's transportation and industry, but only if she has a completely free hand, and if it will be a long term job.

Two Dictators.

WHETHER Stalin accepts if anyone's guess. But if he does, Russia and Germany together will constitute the most powerful region in the world, ruled by two dictators, stretching from the Rhine to the Pacific.

This potential alliance, plus the bogging down of the British naval blockade, is behind the change of Allied tactics and the Chamberlain threat that war may soon become much grimmer. There is even some talk in Allied war councils of a spring attempt to break through the Siegfried line.

This also is behind the huge new buying orders for airplanes placed in this country. The whole strategy of the Allies now is to cut the war short, if possible with smashing victories, rather than continue the starvation tactics which were originally planned.

The starvation strategy broke down with the partial failure of the blockade and the deals Germany made to buy goods in the Balkans. It will break down completely if and when Stalin lets Germany take over his railroads and industry.

Merry-Go-Round.

WITH black tie and dinner jacket, the president uses a long, thin, dull-black metal cigarette case decorated with a gold-etched rural scene, and with his initials engraved in a sun in the upper right-hand corner. . . . The capitalist has had local magazines dealing with its socialists and political big-wigs, but now tens of thousands of government employees are to have a monthly devoted to them. Called "The Government Employees' Digest" and edited by young Paul Toneman, the magazine will feature tales of the unknown workers who make the wheels go round. . . . Culinary specialty of Mrs. Arthur Vandenberg, handsome wife of the Michigan GOP white hope, are small, crisp potato doughnuts. . . . The 1810 census reported that Pennsylvania had 8,600 "waggon" makers, while New York produced 26,000 pounds of snuff worth $8,700.

Labor Troubles.

CORDON DEAN, energetic young maestro of the justice department's anti-trust operations in the building industry, has encountered some strange situations in his work.

Conferring with a Chicago assistant, Dean related the developments that led to the indictment of officials of the AFL teamsters union in Washington, as a result of a bitter intra-AFL fight over who should drive cement mixers on a government building project.

"It certainly was a perplexing situation," said Dean. "The teamsters contended they should drive the mixers, although under union rules they are not supposed to operate them. On the other hand, AFL engineers insisted they should drive as well as operate the mixers."

"You think that is cockeyed?" snorted the assistant. "That's nothing. Out in Chicago we can't even have cement mixers. Union fighting is so hot there that mixing has to be done by hand on the job."

Light Sleeper

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

SEVERAL weeks ago I thought I saw imprinted in the mud along our little stream, tracks that did not belong to the families of muskrat, skunk or possum, but they were faint and difficult to decipher. When the snow came they were written clearly and I followed the trail of little feet that looked more human than those of many other wild-folk of the woods and fields.

The little ball-like heel showed plainly and the constantly widening lines of toes terminated in small downward clawlike prints.

The tracks were fresh along the stream edge. I knew he had traveled here not long before, for the imprints of his feet seemed almost warm. I followed eagerly through mats of thorns and underbrush, up steep banks and through hollows until my clothes were torn and my feet weary.

After almost a mile of heavy walking I was surprised to find no tracks ahead. I stopped and looked, only to find they had turned abruptly right, in the direction of a large swamp oak.

This was something different. I cautiously moved that way. The tracks led into a hollow at the base, between two massive roots. The outer edge of the hole was smoothly worn, and upon a sliver that protruded from above, I saw some fine dark strands of fur. I knew at once that here the light sleeper of all the Seven Sleepers Club was resting from his walk. I broke off a stick from a fallen branch of elm and pounded on the huge rough trunk—then listened.

High up inside the hollow tree I heard a movement. I stepped back, looking up. There was a hole up there, above a crotch, and in a few more seconds a furry head appeared in the opening.

With a patch of black, like a mask across the face that made it appear most comical. He winked his sleepy eyes as though in wonder that I had taken so much trouble to disturb his peaceful rest.

Perhaps my sense of humor is perverted, but often on my walks about the woods I carry a weighty club and knock upon hollow trees, especially those that have an opening leading to the center. On more than one occasion, when I knocked, I have heard that familiar scratching and seen the merry, bewildered face of my friend the "coon look down upon me from his lofty open door questioning slyly my rude manners and then returning to his nap, disdainful of my intrusion.
